I am strongly against Microsoft's proposed settlement to the Anti-Trust trial.

They are a monopoly, that is a fact and it is not in dispute. However, whilst Microsoft as a company, does do "a lot of good" as an mostly ethical originisation, the very fact that they leveraged their monoploy position demands action. During the original Ant-Trust trial, they were found to be falisifying evidence, another action that has gone unpunished.

I demand sufficient action be bought against this company.
